From the Pure Vision: The Verse for Offering Water: An Ocean of Accomplishments by Dudjom Lingpa (1835-1904)

༄༅།

བཅོམ་ལན་འཁོར་དང་བཅས་ལ་འབོལ་བར་བཱི༔

chomden khor dangché la bulwar gyi
I offer now to all the buddhas and their retinues,

shyé né dak dang semchen tamché kyi
As you accept it, may I and all sentient beings

tsok dzok drib dak khorwa dongtruk shok Gather the accumulations, purify obscurations, and empty saṃsāra from its very depths.

om sarva tatagata saparivara argham pratitsa puja megha samudra saparana

One night in a dream the lovely Dudjom Dorje had a delusory vision in which a white-colored woman appeared saying that she was the dākinī Sukhasiddhi. She pronounced these words and said, “The verse for offering water together with prayers of aspiration for beings’ benefit is complete.” And the conditions for writing it down in response to a request from Lama Tṣultrim Dorje were provided by Puntsok Tashi. May it be virtuous! Rigpa Translations, 2015.